February 19, 2024.

I am most humbled, but excited that I have been asked to support an initiative, geared towards naming a portion of a particular road, at Gamble Gade, in the Savan community, in honor of an enormously distinguished, powerful man of God, Bishop William Industrious.

I have known this reputable gentleman for decades; personally, professionally and spiritually, and I can attest to the fact, without equivocation, that Pastor Industrious has significantly and unselfishly contributed to the upliftment of this community. He has consistently demonstrated an impeccable character in living his life, in a manner, which has inspired others to emulate him. Bishop William Industrious has always lived a life with a sense of purpose, and this is one of the many reasons I have no reservation in endorsing this important proposed legislative action; this gentleman is the perfect fit. Simultaneously, I commend Senator Carla Joseph for her vision, along with the other colleagues, who support this measure.

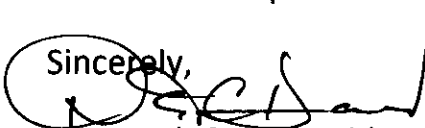

As an outstanding businessman and leader in the Taxi Industry, Mr. Industrious voluntarily took on an ambassadorial role, which provided him with a unique opportunity to enrich the travel experience for thousands of tourists and other visitors, alike, which I believe has helped the Virgin Islands to maintain itself as a preferred destination. Having traversed all passable roads during the time he drove for a living, this influential professional has been able to convince policy makers to ensure that public roads were adequately maintained, as there is a direct connection between good roads and repeat visitors to the Islands.

Bishop Industrious has exemplified vision, courage and love for mankind, thus he is the co-founder of the Christian Unity church at 6B Gamble Gade, in the heart of Savan, which has instilled greater confidence in residents that the community is a safe place to visit, work, live and worship. This positive step brought about more enthusiasm for church members, shoppers, friends and family to the community. Under the leadership of this genuine and dynamic Bishop, the Christian Unity Church prides itself in helping to magnify the cleanliness of the neighborhood.

Accordingly, because of the above, and a lot more, I have joined the numerous voices in support of legislation to name an area of road in the Gamble Gade in honor of Bishop Williams Industrious.

Sincerely,

Roosevelt St. C. David,

Former Senator.
